About the award

The General Practice of the Year Award is designed to recognise practices for their approach to patients' health and wellbeing. A winner will be chosen from each state, and one national winner will be chosen from amongst the state finalists.

The General Practice of the Year (nominee) may be nominated by a member of the medical profession, a member of the general public, a member of a regional training provider or division of general practice etc.

This award will be judged on the following criteria:

- the current accreditation status of the practice; nominations will only be accepted for this award where the relevant practice is an accredited practice
- the structure of the practice, including facilities for both patients and staff
- the services provided to patients by the practice (eg. patient education materials, health promotion, preventative care, reminder systems)
- delivery of services to patients by practice staff
- an outline of what differentiates the practice from other practices
- details of current involvement in general practice teaching.

Important note: Practices which have been awarded the RACGP General Practice of the Year Award in the past, cannot be considered for this award again until a period of 10 years has elapsed.

Nominations must be received by Friday 14 August 2020, 5.00 pm AEST
