

Whistleblower Policy

1. Purpose

The purpose of this policy is to provide Whistleblowers with a transparent mechanism to disclose information concerning any misconduct or improper state of affairs or circumstances relating to RACGP, confidentially, identifying themselves or anonymously and without fear of detrimental treatment. Issues which might be disclosed could include for example, conflicts of interest, conflicts of interest and duties, breach of directors' duties or other misconduct including criminal behaviour. This policy also protects those who are entitled to Whistleblower protection under Australian Whistleblower Laws.

This policy is intended to provide an additional disclosure channel to other internal reporting and complaints avenues, including an employee raising issues directly with their immediate manager. The RACGP, through this policy, encourages disclosures of wrongdoing and seeks to deter improper conduct. Whistleblowers can have confidence that they will be supported.

The RACGP is committed to demonstrating high standards of ethical behaviour and conducting business fairly, openly and honestly. The RACGP will also not tolerate any Officers or employees acting contrary to this commitment. Disclosures will be dealt with appropriately and in a timely way under this policy.

Disclosures made under this policy are also an important part of the RACGP's risk management and corporate governance framework.

This policy is made available to all RACGP Officers, employees, contractors and Members via the RACGP's Organisational Policies webpage: www.racgp.org.au/the-racgp/governance/organisational-policies.

2. Application

This policy applies to all Officers, employees, contractors and Members of the RACGP.

3. Making a Disclosure

Disclosures can be made under this policy by individuals who are current or former:

- Officers, employees or Members of RACGP;
- Contractors or suppliers of goods and services to RACGP, or their employee and sub-contractors, and volunteers. For example, appointees to expert committees; Company Associates of RACGP; or
- Family Members of individuals named above.

4. Types of Disclosure

Disclosures can be made under this policy where a Whistleblower has reasonable grounds to suspect that the information they are disclosing concerns misconduct or an improper state of affairs or circumstances in relation to RACGP (including involving an RACGP Officer or employee). Reasonable grounds means that there is a reasonable objective basis for the suspicion. It does not require proof of allegations but must be more than an allegation with no supporting information.

The disclosure however cannot solely be about a Personal Work-Related Grievance.

Examples of misconduct or an improper state of affairs or circumstances include:

- contraventions of the Corporations Act 2001 (C'th), or Australian Securities and Investments Commission Act 2001 (C'th) suspected to have been committed by RACGP, or an Officer or employee of RACGP (such as a breaches of Officers' duty, breaches of whistleblower protections, falsification of books or false or misleading statements made in accounts or books lodged with ASIC);
- a Commonwealth criminal offence punishable by more than 12 months imprisonment suspected to have been committed by RACGP, or an Officer or employee of RACGP (such as false dealings with accounting documents);
- a danger to the public or the financial system posed by RACGP, or an Officer or employee of RACGP;

- misconduct or an improper state of affairs or circumstances in relation to RACGP's Tax Affairs, or the Tax Affairs of a Company Associate of RACGP;
- fraudulent or corrupt conduct such as dishonesty, fraud, misuse of information or material acquired and dishonestly altering RACGP records or data;
- coercion, harassment or discrimination by, or affecting any employee or member of RACGP;
- misleading or deceptive conduct of any kind, including conduct or representations which amount to improper or misleading accounting or financial reporting practices;
- conduct which may cause financial loss to RACGP or damage RACGP's reputation or is otherwise detrimental to RACGP's interests;
- failure to rectify or take reasonable steps to report a matter likely to give rise to a significant and avoidable cost or loss to RACGP;
- abuse of power or authority for any unauthorised or ulterior purpose; and
- any other criminal conduct.

Note that some possible conduct which might be the subject of a disclosure may not be illegal per se but may indicate a systemic failing which warrants regulator involvement. Other possible conduct fitting this description might be unethical or dishonest conduct which is harmful to the RACGP or which is prohibited by the Member Code of Conduct.

Examples of conduct which would not warrant a disclosure include:

- Normal disciplinary proceedings taken against an employee as part of a grievance process;
- Management action taken in response to employee poor performance in accordance with RACGP policy; or
- Disclosing confidential information with the consent of the owner of that information.

False reporting, where a discloser deliberately reports information they know to be untrue, does not attract the legal protections afforded to whistleblowers but may of itself be a criminal offence dependent on the circumstances. Where a disclosure is found to be deliberately false, the RACGP will take appropriate disciplinary action against the discloser.

In some cases, a Personal Work-Related Grievance may still qualify for protection as a disclosure. For example, if:

- the Personal Work-Related Grievance contains information about misconduct;
- the Personal Work-Related Grievance contains information which suggests misconduct beyond the particular circumstances in the grievance;
- the discloser seeks legal advice about the operation of the relevant legal protections relating to whistleblowers; or
- the discloser is threatened with detriment for making the disclosure.

5. Recipients of Disclosures

The recipient of any disclosure is the Whistleblower Officer.

The RACGP encourages you to make your disclosure in writing to the General Counsel. Disclosures about General Counsel must be made to the CEO.

Alternatively, you can make a disclosure to any one of the following:

- an Officer or Senior Manager within RACGP; or
- an auditor or member of an audit team conducting an audit on RACGP.

Disclosures can be made anonymously through whistleblower@racgp.org.au at any time. An anonymous Whistleblower who wishes to be contacted to discuss progress or whom the Whistleblower Officer may wish to ask questions should use an encrypted messaging service or an anonymous email address in order to communicate.

Disclosures can also be made directly to the Australian Securities and Investments Commission (ASIC) or the Australian Prudential Regulatory Authority (APRA) and further information can be found at www.asic.gov.au and www.apra.gov.au.

In certain circumstances, disclosures may be made to a journalist or Parliamentarian in accordance with the Corporations Act 2001 (C'th). For further details, go to www.asic.gov.au or seek legal advice.

Make sure you keep a record of the details of your disclosure.

6. Confidentiality

No person may disclose or reveal the identity of a Whistleblower (or information that is likely to lead to their identity becoming known) unless:

- the Whistleblower has consented to the disclosure;
- the disclosure is made to a legal practitioner for the purposes of obtaining legal advice or legal representation in relation to the operation of the Australian Whistleblower Laws;
- if the Whistleblower Officer considers it appropriate, the disclosure is made to:
 - the Australian Federal Police;
 - ASIC;
 - APRA;
 - the Australian Commissioner of Taxation if the disclosure concerns RACGP's Tax Affairs or the Tax Affairs of a Company Associate of RACGP; or
 - the Police force of a State or Territory; or
 - the disclosure is required or authorised by a State, Territory or Commonwealth law.

No person may disclose or produce to a court or tribunal any information or documents which discloses the identity of a Whistleblower (or information which is likely to lead to their identity becoming known) without first seeking the advice of General Counsel.

The Whistleblower Officer may disclose the content of a disclosure without the Whistleblower's consent if:

- the information does not disclose the Whistleblower's identity;
- all reasonable steps have been taken to reduce the risk of identification stemming from the information; and
- it is reasonably necessary for investigating the issues raised in the disclosure.

7. Protection from Victimization

No person may cause or threaten any Detriment to any person for a reason which includes that they or another person:

- are or is or propose/s to be a Whistleblower; or
- are or suspected or believed to be, or could be, a Whistleblower.

A Whistleblower who suffers Detriment as a result of a disclosure, or by way of the RACGP failing to protect them from victimisation may be able to seek compensation or other remedies in the courts.

A Whistleblower may also be protected from legal action arising because of their disclosure. A Whistleblower, however, may be held liable for any personal misconduct revealed by their disclosure or an investigation following a disclosure.

8. Support and Protection for Whistleblowers

The RACGP will support Whistleblower Disclosures made in good faith in accordance with this policy by:

- implementing systems and processes for maintaining confidentiality of Whistleblower identity and investigation processes including securely storing all information regarding the disclosure and minimising the number of people made aware of the disclosure and the Whistleblower's identity on a need to know basis;
- developing a risk framework to manage the risk of Detrimental action occurring including risk mitigation actions;
- protecting Whistleblowers from victimisation including through maintenance of confidentiality, sensitive, timely and appropriate handling of investigations, and education across RACGP about this policy;
- protecting Whistleblowers from Detriment by taking appropriate management action considering their work circumstances for example by reassigning their duties, allowing them to work from a different location or making other modifications to their working arrangements;
- offering ongoing counselling if necessary and taking appropriate management action in response to a disclosure. For example, disciplining a staff member as a result of a bullying claim arising from a disclosure or limiting their contact with a victim; and
- providing regular updates to the Whistleblower about the progress of any action taken in response to the disclosure to the extent possible.

The RACGP may also decide to provide de-identified outcomes of investigations of disclosures to staff as part of training and ongoing education around this policy.

9. Investigations of Disclosures

Disclosures made in accordance with this policy will be investigated by the RACGP in the following way, except where, in the opinion of a Whistleblower Officer, it would be inappropriate or unreasonable in the circumstances to do so:

- a. Any person who receives a disclosure must provide the information to a Whistleblower Officer as soon as practicable, removing any information which identifies or may identify the discloser of the information (the Potential Whistleblower) prior to doing so (unless the Potential Whistleblower has provided their consent to that disclosure). Upon receipt of the disclosure, the Whistleblower Officer will notify the Whistleblower, within five business days that the disclosure has been received, if the Whistleblower is contactable;
- b. As soon as practicable, the Whistleblower Officer must determine whether the disclosure falls within the scope of this policy and, if so, appoint an external legally qualified investigator with no personal interest in the matter to conduct an investigation into the matters disclosed, if they determine it to be necessary or appropriate. The Whistleblower Officer will notify the Whistleblower within five business days that an investigation is to occur, or, no further action is to be taken, if the Whistleblower is contactable;
- c. The Whistleblower Officer will instruct the investigator to conduct any investigation in an objective and fair manner, ensuring to provide any employee who has been adversely mentioned in information provided by a Whistleblower an opportunity to respond to the allegations made in respect of them prior to any findings being made;
- d. The outcome of the investigation must be reported to the Board, and may be reported to the Whistleblower and any persons affected as the Whistleblower Officer considers appropriate. Where the matters disclosed are substantiated and a breach has occurred or is occurring, steps will be taken to address the issue and any person(s) responsible will be disciplined as appropriate in the circumstances of the case. Where the matters disclosed are not substantiated, the RACGP may choose to take no further action;
- e. Except as permitted in this policy (see section titled 'Confidentiality' above) or otherwise by law, the identity of a Whistleblower (or information that is likely to lead to their identity becoming known) must be kept confidential at all times during and after the investigation (including in any reporting to the Board or to any persons affected). All persons responsible for or involved in an investigation must take all reasonable steps to reduce the risk that a Whistleblower will be identified; and
- f. The Whistleblower may raise any concerns or complaints regarding this policy or their treatment with the Whistleblower Officer.

10. Reporting to the Board

Subject to the Confidentiality requirements above, the Whistleblower Officer must provide the Board a biannual report on all active Whistleblower matters, including information on:

- the number and nature of disclosures made in the last six months;
- the status of any investigations under way;
- the outcomes of any investigations completed and actions taken as a result of those investigations; and
- identification of any systemic organisational weaknesses exposed by disclosures or disclosure investigations.

11. Consequences of non-compliance with policy

Any breach of this policy by an Officer, employee, contractor or Member will be taken seriously by RACGP, and may be the subject of a separate investigation and/or disciplinary action. Allegations of criminal conduct may also be referred to an appropriate authority.

A breach of this policy may also amount to a civil or criminal contravention under Australian Whistleblower Laws, giving rise to significant penalties.

12. Policy Relationship with Australian Whistleblower Laws

Disclosures made in accordance with this policy may be afforded protection under Australian Whistleblower Laws, whether or not the disclosure later proves to be incorrect and whether anonymous or not. For more information about these laws, see the information available on the ASIC website and the ATO website.

13. Policy Relationship with the Grievance Policy

Apart from the compulsory legal obligations the RACGP has under this policy, this policy does not prevent management from taking any action in relation to any grievance or disciplinary proceeding which might be affected by this policy.

Where a disclosure is made which is substantially the same or related to a grievance made under the RACGP Complaints Policy, the disclosure is to be dealt with separately from the grievance.

14. Amendment of this Policy

The CEO may, without the approval of the Board, make Minor Amendments to this policy at any time.

If the CEO makes Minor Amendments, he/she must advise the Board of those amendments at the next scheduled Board meeting. Major Amendments require the approval of the majority of the Board..

The CEO may also develop procedures or processes consistent with this policy to implement this policy.
