Our Clinical Cases and Conversations series bring together GPs of all career stages, from registrars to professor for an erudite and interactive discussion each month.

General Practitioners (GPs) are the experts in undifferentiated disease as guidelines are not much use for a non-specific symptom.

In each event in the series, we explore symptoms with wide-ranging differentials and look at the place of investigations, GP treatments, immunisations, Dr Google and much more.

Upcoming events in the series include

Cough 'til you drop
