RACGP WA will host the Tuesday night study group series in preparation for the 2019.1 Objective Structured Clinical Examination (OSCE) examination.

This series is specifically designed to assist international medical graduates (IMGs) in their preparation for the exam and features highly interactive lecture sessions on medical topics covered in the OSCE.

At each session different topics will be discussed and facilitated by a medical educator. Each session will include case studies and group discussion on correct clinical management.

The sessions aim to provide candidates with:

- outline of clinical exam components
- suggestions on how to improve communication skills
- improve clinical decision making skills in general practice cases
- information on successful clinical exam techniques.

Important information

Places are strictly limited so candidates are encouraged to register early.

A limited number of places are available for remote candidates to participate via webinar. This is only available to candidates outside of Perth and needs to be arranged with the Examination officer prior to registering.

It is highly recommended that participants complete the Exam Support Online Modules on the OSCE available on gplearning prior to attending the series.
