About check

check is a continuing professional development (CPD) learning activity written by expert clinicians and reviewed by subject matter experts. Each unit comprises approximately five clinical cases with answers, followed by multiple-choice questions, as well as references and resources.

check aims to keep Australian GPs up to date with the most common and most important clinical conditions, providing updated, relevant support to GPs in their clinical practice.

There are 11 check units each year, and members achieve approximately 10 CPD hours (2 hours per case) for completing a unit of check.

check is available in hard copy (printed quarterly) and online. RACGP members have free online access through gplearning and optional hard copy subscriptions to the check program. To receive hard copies of check, please complete and return this form.

check is also available to non-members by subscription. Both online-only and hard copy and online subscriptions are available. To subscribe, please complete and return this form. For all enquiries, please call 1800 331 626 or email check@racgp.org.au.
